RE: Koontz Electric Ranked Among Top Specialty Contractors in the US

For the seventh consecutive year, Koontz Electric was named to the list of the top 600 Specialty Contractors in the U.S. by Engineering News-Record, the most important publication in the construction industry. The ranking was by volume of sales nationwide.

As a specialty electrical contractor, over the past 7 years Koontz has continued to climb in the survey, and in 2013 reached the ranking of 360th among on the list of the largest 600 specialty construction companies.

“We are excited to be included in this group of true leaders in our industry by such a well-known publication, and want to thank both our customers and our employees for their support and determination as we have grown to be a nationally recognized company”, said Benny Koontz, the President and CEO of Koontz Electric.

Koontz continues to grow because it is in one of the strongest fields in the industry, the power construction business, which includes work at substations and hydroelectric generation facilities for utilities and the Federal Government, water management for various arms of the government, and private industrial work. Koontz has also completed work in the past year at a major solar power installation in California for the military at Fort Hunter Liggett.

KECI, headquartered in Morrilton, Ar, currently employs 160 people nationwide on projects involving dams, power plants, bridges, and industrial facilities.
